Guidelines:

Regarding derivative works using music and characters from MILGRAM.
To all those who create derivative works of MILGRAM's music, characters, etc.

MILGRAM has created its own guidelines so that everyone can engage in derivative works with peace of mind and enjoy them freely.
We hope that you will continue to understand and support us in our efforts to have more people become familiar with MILGRAM.

Basic requests regarding derivative works of MILGRAM

1 MILGRAM is open to derivative works!
We hope you will join us in fan art, singing, dancing, etc. to make MILGRAM more exciting!
2 However, secondary use (using the MILGRAM characters and logo materials, etc. as they are) is not permitted!
3 Individuals or unincorporated organizations are free to create, display, and distribute derivative works based on MILGRAM only for noncommercial purposes*!
4 Please be careful not to have your works mistaken as official to avoid any problems!

Regarding fanart
Enjoy them freely!
However, in order to avoid trouble, please refrain from copying, scanning, or tracing official materials.

As a side note, it would be great if you could use hashtags such has “#milgram_fa” to spread your works.

Regarding singing (covers) and dances
We encourage you to upload singing and dancing videos using the instrumental music of each song distributed by MILGRAM.
When uploading, it would be appreciated if you could include a link to MILGRAM's official YouTube channel.
*In the case of "dancing" the choreography is also copyrighted, so in order to avoid any trouble, please obtain permission from the copyright holder when using someone else's choreography.

Sales of doujinshi (fanzines)
If it is not for commercial purposes, both creation and sales are permitted.

Regarding doujin goods
There is no problem in creating, presenting, and distributing goods among your friends.

However, selling them is prohibited because it is difficult to distinguish them from official goods.

Regarding cosplays
The creation of cosplays and filming or enjoying events in cosplays are acceptable.

MILGRAM's guidelines may be modified in the future as we seek to improve them in the course of managing the project.
We will inform you of any such changes, so please check back.

Please [click here] for details.

*What is a commercial purpose?
MILGRAM defines "commercial purposes" as the estimated sales amount of one item is 100,000 yen or more.
